Summertime stories

Choose a book from the library or children's book store that talks about what other children do around the world during the summer months.

Create a stained-glass window with food coloring and a paper towel or coffee filter. Spread a filter or towel on a plastic mat, make a strong mixture of food coloring and water, and use an eyedropper to "paint" on the paper towel.

Let dry and hang in a window.

Watch 'em grow!

Summer is a season when things grow. Talk with your child about the trees, flowers or vegetables growing outside Then talk about the ways your child is growing and changing too. Chart that growth on his bedroom wall by placing a pencil mark on the wall where he stands. Make a new mark each week.

Teachable Moments happen every day
